CAT Verbal Ability Preparation 2026

Given the nature of questions given above, CAT 2026 Verbal Ability Preparation requires time and effort to improve your understanding and use of English language. Follow this CAT Verbal Ability preparation strategy to improve your performance in this section.

- 1. Improve Reading Skills: Start reading newspapers, editorials, and opinion articles from sources like The Hindu, Indian Express and The Guardian. Focus on different topics, including business, philosophy, psychology, and social sciences.
- 2. Strengthen Logical Sequencing for Para Jumbles: Identify connecting words like "however," "therefore," and "moreover" to determine sentence order. Find the opening sentence and logical sequence by looking for pronouns or subject continuity.
- 3. Master Para Summary Questions: Read the given paragraph carefully and identify the central idea before looking at answer choices. Avoid summaries that introduce new information or alter the meaning of the passage.
- 4. Crack Odd One Out Questions: Identify the common theme in four sentences and find the one that does not fit. Look for logical flow, topic consistency, and transition words to determine the odd sentence. Practice recognizing subtle differences in sentence themes and structures.
- 5. Build Strong Vocabulary: Learn new words daily using resources like Word Power Made Easy by Norman Lewis. Understand word roots, prefixes, and suffixes to decode meanings quickly. Maintain a vocabulary journal and revise words frequently.
- 6. Improve Critical Reasoning Skills: Practice inference-based questions that require identifying assumptions, conclusions, and arguments. Read opinion pieces and argumentative essays to develop reasoning skills. Avoid making extreme assumptions while answering these questions.
- 7. Develop a Strategy for Non-MCQ (TITA) Questions: Since many Verbal Ability questions are TITA, focus on accuracy rather than guessing. Write down possible answer structures for Para Jumbles and Odd One Out questions to check coherence before finalizing the order.
- 8. Practice Mock Tests and Previous Year Papers: Solve past CAT papers to understand the pattern and difficulty level of Verbal Ability questions. Take sectional and full-length mock tests to improve time management and accuracy. Analyze mistakes and learn from incorrect answers. Check link for CAT verbal ability free mock test below.

9. Manage Time Effectively: Allocate 13–15 minutes for the Verbal Ability questions within the VARC section, and use the remaining time for Reading Comprehension passages. Do not spend too much time on a single question; if stuck, move on and return later if time permits. Prioritize high-accuracy questions like Para Summary and Odd One Out before tackling Para Jumbles.
10. Review and Learn from Mistakes: Maintain an error log to track mistakes and understand recurring patterns. Analyze why a particular answer was incorrect and focus on improving weak areas. Reattempt difficult questions after a few days to reinforce learning.

CAT Verbal Ability Tips by Toppers

Read the CAT 2026 Verbal Ability Tips by CAT Toppers, shared during MBAUniverse.com interviews:

Ekansh Gupta, CAT Topper 99.91%; IIM Calcutta Student: “I started with reading 10 Books, a mix of fiction and non-fictional books for VARC Preparation and then switched to CR practice over free resources like the GMAT club. Also, I enrolled for GEJO's VARC 1000 that helped me know the techniques or strategies I was missing.”

Akhil Garg, CAT Topper 99.73%; IIM Ahmedabad Student: “I focused a lot on reading different articles and novels, conversing in English with friends and even watching English TV series and movies. I wrote down whatever new words I encountered after reading at least 5-6 newspaper articles every day.”

Gyayak Jain, CAT Topper 100%; IIM Ahmedabad Student: “I believe I was weak in VARC and therefore I started by looking into model answers given in the solutions and tried to understand if I associated with the logic given in the solution. If I was satisfied with the logic given in the solution, which was not always true, I tried to look problems from that point of view also in the next mock. When I was not convinced with the solution, I ignored the mistake and went ahead with my intuition/logic in next mocks too. If I find that same mistake is repeating, then I tried to find out situations where my logic will not work. I tried experimenting with various exam attempting strategies and realised I get fatigued if I do same kind of problems together in one go, so I mix-matched various types of questions.”

Rachit Gupta, CAT Topper 99.83%; IIM Lucknow Student: “I was very weak at the verbal section. The key reason was the slow reading speed. I took course material from TIME and my strategy was to emphasize more on my weakness which was the Verbal section.”

Sai Praneeth Reddy, CAT Topper 100%: Praneeth felt that he needed hard work in VARC which he did in the last one month to CAT. Mocks helped him to improve a lot in CAT preparation. He says that to improve in VARC the best way, is to start reading novels and articles.
